

A victim of sexual harassment at work has no right of action against her employer for damages

July 1, 1996

A victim of sexual harassment at work has no right of action against her employer for damages